

Envisioning Sustainabilities

Towards an Anthropology of Sustainability

Edited by Fiona Murphy and Pierre McDonagh

This volume is a collection of essays considering the relationship between the social sciences and sustainability studies.

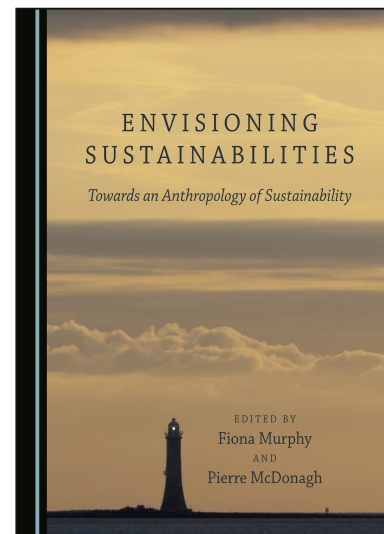

Contributions are drawn from a range of disciplines, such as sociology, anthropology (both scholarly and applied), political science, and media studies.

It has been carefully edited to provide the reader with a range of commentaries to interrogate the evolution of 'sustainability imaginaries' in contexts as varied as urban planning, community gardens, bread-making, sustainable food movements in Italy, applied projects such as water projects in Bangladesh, and disaster studies.

As such, this is a book which ultimately argues for the value of the social sciences in considering one of the more urgent and complex topics of our time – that of sustainability.

Fiona Murphy is a Queens University Belfast Research Fellow based at the Senator George J. Mitchell Institute for Global Peace, Security and Justice. Fiona earned her doctorate in Anthropology from Maynooth University in 2009.

Pierre McDonagh, BSocSc, MBA, PhD, is Professor of Marketing at the University of Bath, England. He has worked at Universities in Ireland, Scotland, Wales, England, and the United States.

Are you looking for a publisher for your scholarly work?

Cambridge Scholars Publishing is an academic publishing house committed to providing a forward-thinking service that champions original thinking and puts our authors at the heart of everything we do.

Founded by former lecturers and researchers from the University of Cambridge, we publish research monographs, edited volumes, conference proceedings, and select PhD proceedings, with a particular focus on The Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences. With a strong reputation for author satisfaction, we understand the importance of making the publishing process a rewarding experience, with no cost to the author/editor, complimentary copies, a substantial author discount, free access to our eBook titles, and a generous royalty scheme. Our publications are marketed worldwide and sold through international booksellers and distributors including Amazon, Blackwell, Baker & Taylor, YBP and Ingram, and are widely purchased by academic libraries. In addition, we have distribution partnerships in key geographical territories such as the USA, China, India and the Middle East.

Our international Editorial Advisory Board is chaired by Professor Emeritus David Weir and consists of established scholars and leading-edge thinkers, who play a key role in helping us to steer our commissioning focus. Professor Weir explains: “Cambridge Scholars is a publishing house with a difference: I have experienced first-hand the strong scholarly values coupled with a level of efficiency, which sets it apart from the rest. The team produces topical books that cut through all the complexities of contemporary publishing, with a genuine focus on a superior author experience.”
