

Higher Education Lunchtime Forum

The Queen's Higher Education Lunchtime Forum provides colleagues with an opportunity to exchange information on good practice, innovative methods and tested approaches in learning and teaching. These events provide the opportunity to discuss current pedagogical topics/issues over lunch, followed by a presentation and further discussion by an invited member of staff.

The meetings typically run from 12.45 pm to 1.55 pm and all teaching staff are welcome to attend and exchange ideas with colleagues from across the University and enhance their professional development. Details are advertised one month before each event.
