

Reflections* Newsletter

The CED newsletter Reflections focuses on teaching and learning in Queen's and in higher education more generally.

Reflections provides a forum for discussing learning and teaching initiatives and also updates readers on news and events in Queen's. All staff are welcome to contribute and contributions can take several forms:

- articles on an aspect of teaching and learning or student support (generally 500-1,000 words)
- short "newsflash" items, for example, reporting on a recent event or advertising a new venture or up-coming event (100-200 words)
- Responses to previous articles or to recent developments in higher education.

Reflections is distributed to academic colleagues and central units across the University and is also available on the CED website.
