

National Teaching Fellowship Scheme (NTFS) and Collaborative Award for Teaching Excellence (CATE)

The purpose of the National Teaching Fellowship Scheme is to recognise, reward and celebrate individuals who are judged to make an outstanding impact on the student learning experience and provide the means to develop a proactive community of National Teaching Fellows (NTFs).

The Collaborative Award for Teaching Excellence aims to celebrate learning and teaching initiatives that positively impact on the student experience in creative and innovative ways and recognise teams that have enabled a change in practice for colleagues or students at an institutional or discipline level.

APPLYING TO BE A QUEEN'S NOMINEE

Queen's is invited to nominate up to three individuals and one team annually for these Awards and details of the selection procedures are circulated widely when the Schemes are announced. Please contact Liz McDowell (e.mcdowell@qub.ac.uk) for further details of the application procedure.

Support is provided to the successful applicants to finalise and format the applications before submission. Details of the NTFS and CATE can be accessed at <https://www.heacademy.ac.uk/recognition-accreditation>
