

Getting Online

DANIEL

As a student at Queen's, you've lots of choice in where you study. There are computers on each floor of The McClay Library and the Ground Floor is open late during term-time if you need to get caught up.

ROISIN

You can check online to help you decide the best place to find a computer.

There's also the Medical Biology Centre or MBC here on the Lisburn Road. But you don't need to be studying Medicine or Biology to use the facilities.

DANIEL

You can access most online facilities from any of these locations, including your Q: drive, where you can save your files but you'll need your student number and password.

Your Queen's password is also used to access your email and Queen's Online. So keep it secret and when you're finished using the computer, make sure you log off.

ROISIN

Don't forget to take your belongings with you and don't use coats or bags to reserve spaces. You know what it's like when you're trying to get an assignment finished and you can't get a computer!
