

Getting Help and Advice

DANIEL

There are lots of places where you can get help in the McClay Library. This is the Borrower services desk on the ground floor. Here you can ask for help and advice on using the library facilities. You can also ask for help at the enquiry desks on the upper floors.

ROISIN

If you have a problem using a computer or accessing the wifi, call at the Computer Helpdesk.

DANIEL

You can get help finding books, journals or anything online at the enquiry desk on the upper floors of the McClay.

ROISIN

There's a subject librarian for each subject. You can get their contact details here or from the LibGuides section of the library web site.

You can make an appointment to talk to them about your own search for resources or any aspect of the library in Queen's. They are here to help so don't hesitate to get in touch!

Hello! Can I get some help, please?

DANIEL

LibGuides are web pages to help you with your own subject. There are lists of the best databases, research assistance, subject guides, and useful web sites compiled by the subject librarians. You can access LibGuides from the main library page. They will save you loads of time looking for the right resources so do check them out.

And don't forget the Student webpages, library blog, Facebook and of course Twitter to keep track of everything that's happening!