

MS 78 Watt Collection

About the collection:

Samuel Watt was a Queen's University of Belfast graduate in the 1950's who became involved with the Northern Ireland Labour Party. He stood, unsuccessfully, for election for the NILP in the Queen's University of Belfast constituency of the NI Parliament in 1958 and went on to found the Ulster Labour Group in London; an organisation dedicated to representing and promoting the views and positions of the NILP amongst the Labour Party and wider Trade Union movement in Great Britain. Watt was also deeply active in student politics and university life while a student at QUB, holding positions in the Literary & Scientific (Literific) Society, and the QUB Labour Society. His personal papers, collected here, represent a treasure trove of Northern Irish and left-wing politics in the 1950s and 60s. Most notably they provide an extensive look into the internal workings of the Northern Ireland Labour Party in this period, when it was at its height, and then beginning to decline. The papers also relate to political organisations including, but not limited to, the Irish Congress of Trade Unions, the European Youth Campaign (a CIA front organisation during the Cold War) and the World Festival of Youth and Students (a Soviet-backed international youth organisation). The collection was discovered in the school of Sociology at Queen's in 2014, with no record of how it came to be there; it was then transferred to Special Collections for preservation.

MS 78/22/1 NILP Election Comms, 21st May 1952

This item, and a number of items in MS 78/22/10, refer to an election held on 21st May 1952. It is not precisely clear what election this was, from the context of the leaflets it appears to have been an election to Belfast City Council, however 1952 was not a local election year. It may have been a by-election in the Court Ward of Belfast City Council as several leaflets refer to that ward.
