COVID-19: STUDYING AT QUEEN’S

This prospectus, at the time of going to press, is the most up-to-date information Queen’s can provide about our postgraduate courses and campus life, contingent on current Government restrictions and guidelines on COVID-19.

Queen’s has taken every precaution to ensure the safety of all our students and that all information is up-to-date. These measures are outlined in our ‘Campus Commitment’. It offers clarity and reassurance on the type of learning and student experience you can expect. Visit qub.ac.uk/our-campus-commitment

Northern Ireland is the least populated country in the UK (1.8 million) and the first to introduce contact tracing, making it one of the safest places to study in the UK.

Queen’s has adapted fully to the pandemic, and student-teacher interaction is still a key part of Queen’s learning model. Through Connected Learning, you will receive a blend of face-to-face teaching and virtual learning.

If you are a researcher, your supervisor will be in touch with you directly to talk through the approach that best suits your needs and to identify how your research can be undertaken, safely.

You’ll talk to lecturers and fellow students regularly, still undertake group/lab work and receive the world-class teaching and guidance you would expect from a Russell Group University.

Our Student Support and Accommodation teams are on hand to help and support you, or if you have any questions about how your course/research might be effected during the pandemic, a full list of FAQs is available here: qub.ac.uk/home/coronavirus-faqs

RESEARCH WITH GLOBAL IMPACT

We’re answering the big questions and we’re doing it here in Belfast.

OUR LEADING POSTGRADUATE AND POSTDOCTORAL COMMUNITY

We’re committed to an environment where ideas and innovation flourish, where students and researchers develop their talents and fulfil their ambitions.

Flagship programmes and researchers across disciplines address the biggest global challenges of our time. How do we tackle cancer? How do we help societies recovering from conflict? How to stay secure in the information explosion?

DRIVING CLEAN TRANSPORT

Queen’s has been at the forefront of developing new clean transport solutions over the last 20 years. Through industrial partnerships across the automotive sector, the University has led innovations in new heavy duty electrified powertrains, after-treatment technologies and innovative turbocharger design. Queen’s has also focused on the opportunities for bio-fuel and hydrogen adoption in future transport systems.

A NEW STREAM OF TALENT

Seagate Technology, one of the world’s largest manufacturers of hard disk drives, collaborated with Queen’s to set up ANSIN, a new research centre at the School of Mathematics and Physics. It has become a source of highly-educated and employable PhD students in Science and Technology. It has also led to the establishment of an £8m Centre for Doctoral Training, supported by Seagate and other industry partners.

DUBAI HEALTHCARE PARTNERS

Queen’s is partnered with Dubai Healthcare City, the world’s largest healthcare free-trade zone, to develop the Mohammed Bin Rashid University of Medicine and Health Sciences and its College of Medicine. It is a long-term partnership and collaboration to address the healthcare education, training and research needs of Dubai and other regional communities.

GROUNDBREAKING GREEN CHEMISTRY

Our partnership with the Malaysian oil and gas giant PETRONAS has led to the development of ionic liquids - green chemistry – hailed as the most important British innovation of the 21st century. The technology developed by Queen’s University Ionic Liquid Laboratories (QUILL) and PETRONAS is being used to produce mercury-free natural gas at plants in Malaysia.

FROM RESEARCH TO ENTERPRISE

Every day our talented researchers work on new ideas and new concepts, making exciting discoveries to advance our global society.

QUBIS, our venture spin-out arm, translates this into impact. QUBIS companies have an annual turnover of £215m and sustain 1,800 high-value jobs in Northern Ireland. These companies include Andor Technology, developer of scientific cameras, and Kainos, the digital technology company. Both are now highly successful global enterprises.

Queen’s University is in the top 209 global universities*, ranked 8th in the UK for research intensity and 9th in the world for international research collaboration.

We have established global networks, working with more than 250 institutions and partners. Our research reputation is attracting major international investment.

For example, California-based CV6 Therapeutics has chosen to partner with our Patrick G Johnston Centre for Cancer Research, with an initial investment of £5.5m, on the development of a new drug with the potential to make chemotherapy more effective.

The Institute for Health Sciences at Queen’s University is focused on addressing major global challenges in the areas of cancer, respiratory conditions, eye disease and diabetic vascular complications and antimicrobial resistance. The Institute promotes interdisciplinary research in each of these areas through integration of basic scientific and population-based research, translational platforms and delivery of innovative clinical trials and clinical research. The Institute has three operational divisions: The Patrick G Johnston Centre for Cancer Research, the Centre for Public Health and the Institute for Global Food Security. The Wellcome-Wolfson Institute for Experimental Medicine houses 50 research groups focusing on translating blue-sky discovery science to solve global health problems of the lung (asthma and cystic fibrosis), the eye (diabetic retinopathy), the heart (vascular dysfunction), and infectious pandemic. We are globally recognised by our research on microbes resistant to all antibiotics, and we have embarked on a programme to find new treatments for COVID-19. The Institute embraces the work in humans as a core strategy to fast track our discoveries into the clinical use.

Together the three divisions are exploiting advanced technologies and facilities to promote interdisciplinary collaboration and competitive research programmes in partnership with the health and social care sectors and national and global pharmaceutical and biotech industries.

The Senator George J. Mitchell Institute for Global Peace, Security and Justice

Questions about peace, security and justice dominate the discourse of governments, international agencies and civil society. As it emerges from conflict, Northern Ireland can help to answer these questions through the work of the Mitchell Institute. Senator George J. Mitchell was a major influence in bringing peace to Northern Ireland (and was a Queen’s Chancellor). The Institute’s role is to respond to the unprecedented challenge of building a peaceful, secure and inclusive world.

It brings together the University’s unparalleled expertise, linking peace-making with social transformation and pointing out the need for governance reform of state institutions alongside cultural and social processes for healing in society. There is an emphasis on multidisciplinarity and interdisciplinarity, with international researchers from fields as diverse as Politics, History, Mental Health, Management and Planning working together. This collaborative research also includes a shared grant with the Centre for Secure Information Technologies (CSIT) looking at cyber security and issues of trust, privacy and ethics.

The Institute’s key research themes include:
• How do peace processes become a part of everyday life?
• How to embed international human rights norms into local cultures?
• How do we secure ‘just’ and ethical responses to a range of security risks?
• How do values and beliefs in different cultures shape approaches to peace-building?

An £800,000 award from the Arts and Humanities Research Council is examining the role of sound, narrative, music-making and digital media in conflict transformation.

The Institute of Electronics, Communications and Information Technology (ECIT)

ECIT is transforming Northern Ireland into a world-leading centre for enterprise and innovation. It is based at Catalyst – formerly the Northern Ireland Science Park – where it became the anchor tenant in 2004.

Our world has become increasingly digitised. But with this digital growth, new challenges arise: how to process, transmit and secure large volumes of information and how to accelerate the global adoption of technical innovations for greatest economic impact.

ECIT is answering these questions by developing next-generation technologies under the research theme of secure connected intelligence.

The Institute has three pillars:
• The Centre for Secure Information Technologies (CSIT) – the UK’s Innovation and Knowledge Centre for cyber security, responsible for delivering some of the nation’s flagship cyber security innovation programmes such as HutZero, Cyber 101 and London Office of Rapid Cybersecurity Advancement (LORCA).
• The Centre for Wireless Innovation (CWI) – Developing underpinning technologies for mobile, medical and space. CWI is ranked 28th in the 2019 Shanghai Ranking’s Global Ranking of Academic Subjects for telecoms engineering / wireless communications (2nd in the UK and 5th in Europe).
• The Centre for Data Sciences and Scalable Computing - Developing systems for the data-driven society.

ECIT’s continued success:
• The award of a Queen’s Anniversary Prize to CSIT for its work in protecting the online activity of billions of internet users
• The granting of a Regius Professorship to Queen’s Professor Máire O’Neill appointed to the UK AI Council

At CSIT, multinational partners include Allstate, BAE Systems, eBay, Seagate, First Derivatives and Thales. It is the UK’s largest academic research and innovation centre in cyber security and one of the largest in Europe. It has been recognised as an ‘Academic Centre of Excellence in Cyber Security Research’ by the UK’s NCSC since 2012.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE
You’re never more than a short distance away from a beach, a hillside, a river, or a landmark to our history.

Take an exciting road trip along the twisting, turning North Coast. See the Giant’s Causeway, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, plunge into the Atlantic surf near Royal Portrush Golf Club where The Open was held in 2019, or steel your nerves to cross the famous Carrick-a-Rede rope bridge. And all in one day.

SWEEPING TO THE SEA
Our tallest peak, Slieve Donard, dominates the Mourne Mountains, an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, and the inspiration for CS Lewis’ magical world of Narnia. Soak up the rich culture, heritage and mythology of the region, and enjoy sweeping views down to the sea as you scale the fantastical soaring mountains in search of Aslan.

GAME OF THRONES
The most popular TV series in the world was filmed throughout Northern Ireland and at the Titanic studios in Belfast. Tour the real locations – both spectacular and mysterious, such as the Dark Hedges – that have helped to create the legend and have fuelled the growth of our local film industry.

GATEWAY TO EUROPE
Uniquely and perfectly positioned within easy reach of the Republic of Ireland, the rest of the UK and mainland Europe, this is the perfect UK student destination for exploration and adventure. It’s a short hop from Belfast to other UK major cities, less than a couple of hours to Paris, while Dublin is just 100 miles down the road.
You’re going to like it here. So make yourself at home. Belfast is a modern capital city, welcoming, easy to get around and an inexpensive place in which to live and study. It is also a learning city. It has a passion for progress – a passion shared by Queen’s University.

As Belfast flourishes as a global food, culture, arts and shopping destination, Queen’s is on the pulse of the city’s social and economic heart, sharing a commitment to excellence, innovation and prosperity.

BELFAST:
Friendly, Affordable, Ambitious

Northern Ireland happiest place to live in the UK,
(Lloyds Bank Happiness Index 2020)
INNOVATION AT ITS HEART
Belfast has a long and proud history of industry and innovation, from ship building to linen manufacturing. In the 18th century, Belfast had a strong pro-abolition and antislavery movement ahead of most UK cities. The Good Friday Agreement of 2018 pointed to Northern Ireland as a global role model for peace and Northern Ireland happiest place to live in the UK, (Lloyd's Bank Happiness Index 2020).

Technological advances infiltrate every sector, helping to build our competitiveness on the global stage. In fact, Belfast is Europe’s leading FDI destination for new software development by job creation (fDi Markets FT 2020) 2014-2020.

HOME TO THE WORLD’S BIGGEST COMPANIES
Today, Belfast is an inward magnet for investment. The number of international businesses operating in Northern Ireland has risen by 61 per cent (Source: NISRA - Inter Departmental Business Register 2020). Its young, dynamic population is a thriving business community with a determination to succeed and is ranked as the world’s most business friendly small-medium sized city (Financial Times fDi Intelligence, 2018).

The prevalence of venture capitalists, business angels and private investors mean that young, high potential companies are booming in the city. There are almost 1,100 international companies located in Northern Ireland, employing nearly 100,000 people, and Belfast is the second most successful city in the UK (after London) for attracting US trade. Belfast is also one of Europe’s top 10 small cities for Foreign Direct Investment strategy (Financial Times, fDi European Cities of the Future, 2018). The Titanic Quarter has become an economic and technological powerhouse, hosting global companies such as Citi, Microsoft, IBM and HBO, Catalyst, formerly the NI Science Park, houses 200 companies which are spearheading tech innovation. It is also the home of Queen’s globally-renowned Centre for Secure Information Technologies which has helped to create 1,100 new jobs in cyber security in Belfast over the past three years.

Belfast: A PROFESSIONAL CITY
Northern Ireland has the lowest student cost of living in the UK. In fact, it’s over £5,000 per year cheaper for students to live in Northern Ireland compared to London (Which? University, 2018). At an average of £90 per week, Belfast was found to have the cheapest weekly rent compared to anywhere else in the UK in 2018 (Marbles. com). The average student’s cinema ticket costs £4.95 and just £4 in Queen’s Film Theatre – less than half the price of London.

GETTING AROUND
Belfast is a compact city, best explored by foot or by bicycle. The city’s popular Belfast Bikes scheme has cycle racks located all over the city. There are good bus and train services, with student travel discounts widely available.

A CITY OF CULTURE
Beautiful architecture, art galleries and museums, such as the Ulster and Titanic Museums, shape the city’s unique character. There’s a thriving music and arts scene in a modern cultural landscape of cool gig venues, popup theatres and urban festivals.

Queen’s University is at the heart of a city of artists, poets, writers and musicians celebrated in the Cathedral Quarter, with its busy restaurants, pubs and arts venues, such as The MAC and the Black Box. The energy of the city is tangible in the legendary nightclubs, artisan cafes, cloth-cap bars and cobbled streets, where street art, street food and street markets deliver a colourful punch at every turn.

The IELTS Academic scores listed are the minimum overall score requirements. For each individual test component, the minimum score required is normally 5.5, however for some programmes the component scores necessary may be higher. Please refer to the University’s online Course Finder for individual programme requirements at go.qub.ac.uk/coursefinder. For details of other English language qualifications which may be accepted by the University please visit go.qub.ac.uk/EnglishLanguageReqs.

POSTGRADUATE TAUGHT

TAUGHT MASTER’S DEGREES

Master’s degrees are designed to enable students to focus on a particular subject area or field of study in greater depth than they have encountered before in undergraduate study or employment experience. Students on our taught Master’s programmes usually undertake a combination of taught modules, assessment and supervised independent research. Master’s programmes usually involve two semesters of classes and assessed work followed by four or five months of research culminating in a dissertation or project.

Students undertaking a Master’s degree have the opportunity to undergo a programme of training and development which aims to develop their leadership skills. Through the programme, students are able to undertake a 360-degree assessment of their skills and to participate in a range of training sessions and developmental activities, relevant to their needs.

Taught Master’s degrees at Queen’s include:
- Master of Arts (MA)
- Master of Architecture (MArch)
- Master of Business Administration (MBA)
- Master of Education (MEd)
- Master of Law (LLM)
- Master’s in Law (MLaw)
- Master of Public Health (MPH)
- Master of Research (MRes)
- Master of Science (MSc)

For admission to a Master’s degree, a Second Class Honours degree from a UK or Republic of Ireland Higher Education Provider or an equivalent qualification acceptable to the University is normally required. Entrance requirements vary by programme and you should consult the individual programme entries in this guide or the online Course Finder.

POSTGRADUATE DIPLOMAS AND CERTIFICATES

Postgraduate Diploma courses usually last for nine months, with Postgraduate Certificate courses normally lasting four months. Where offered as a standalone qualification, they are typically structured in the same way as Master’s degrees, without the research dissertation or project, and usually cover some of the same modules as the related Master’s degree.

The Postgraduate Certificate in Education (PGCE) is a vocational course which lasts for nine months and includes teaching placements.

The University offers postgraduate study for diplomas and certificates in a wide range of subjects. It may be possible for you to transfer registration from a Postgraduate Diploma to a Master’s degree after completion of assessment.

All postgraduate taught students have the opportunity to undertake training in academic skills such as dissertation writing and referencing.

CONTINUING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT (CPD)

Some Postgraduate Taught programmes can be used for Continuing Professional Development. In addition, the University provides some non-credit bearing CPD courses, for example, through the William J Clinton Leadership Institute in Queen’s Management School.

This is intended as a guide only to the general academic entry requirements for postgraduate programmes, expressed in terms of UK Honours degree classifications. Please see online course finder qub.ac.uk/courses for further information on the academic and English language requirements.
You will be expected to submit your thesis at the end of three years of full-time registration for PhD, two years for MPhil/MD and one year for MCh (or part-time equivalent).

PHD BY PUBLISHED WORKS
This is awarded for the successful submission of a portfolio of ARF research that was published prior to you registering on the programme, along with a critical analysis. You must be an academic member of staff at Queen’s, and have been so for a minimum of one year. Registration is normally on a part-time basis, under the direction of an adviser appointed by the University. You will be expected to submit your published works, with a 10,000-word critical analysis, within one year.

PROFESSIONAL DOCTORATES
These are specialist qualifications available in the area of psychology which combine taught postgraduate modules with independent research projects located within a profession or practice placement.

HIGHER DOCTORATES
These are awarded to individuals who have an authoritative standing in their field of study, and seminal publications which have led to extensions or the development of knowledge by others.

In order to apply for this programme, you must have a significant link to the University, normally by being a graduate or a current academic member of staff. You will usually have a minimum of 10 years’ research experience at a postdoctoral level.

SKILLS TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT
The development of transferable skills is an integral part of the experience of being a postgraduate research student. The Postgraduate Development Programme led by The Graduate School offers you a choice of training courses and development activities aimed at providing you with the skills to complete your higher degree and enhance your employability. The funding bodies for postgraduates consider the development of these skills as an essential part of training for careers both in academic and non-academic work environments.

The courses offered in the Development Programme supplement those provided by Schools and are available to all research students. Funding is available for student-led initiatives. These are activities developed and delivered by postgraduate students for postgraduate students. These initiatives can involve organising a conference, research seminar or some other research event.

To date these initiatives have proven to be very effective in encouraging students to identify their skills requirements and develop their own training.

For further information on the Postgraduate Development Programme, please visit qub.ac.uk/graduate-school

WORKING AWAY FROM THE UNIVERSITY
You may be permitted to carry out some of your research away from Queen’s. You will need to satisfy the University that you will maintain appropriate contact with your supervisor, and have access to appropriate facilities, during any periods spent away, and you may be required to spend a specified period of time in residence at the University.

You will be subject to the University’s normal training and monitoring requirements.

As part of the Russell Group, Queen’s is proud to be one of the UK’s leading research universities, offering postgraduate research opportunities across all fields of study.

A research degree offers you the opportunity to gain in-depth, specialised knowledge in an original research project, guided by a supervisory team, which culminates in the presentation of a thesis which you defend in an oral examination.

During your studies you will also develop research, personal and professional development skills that will support future careers within academia, industry or the public sector.

PHD/MPHIL/MD/MCH
You will produce a traditional thesis, or, in the case of creative practice projects, your original creative works and an integrated critical analysis. If you are on an Integrated PhD pathway you normally commence your programme with taught modules and research topic options before completing the supervised research project.

For Admission, an Upper Second Class Honours degree from a UK or Republic of Ireland Higher Education Provider or equivalent qualification acceptable to the University is normally required. Specific entrance criteria by programme are detailed in the online Course Finder.

The £11.2m Northern Bridge project, funded by the Arts and Humanities Research Council (AHRC), is part of a national network of Doctoral Training Partnerships which brings together the cutting-edge expertise and exceptional resources of Queen’s, Newcastle University, Durham University and their partners for the training and development of outstanding Arts and Humanities postgraduate researchers.

The new E8.1m Centre for Doctoral Training in Photonic Integration for Advanced Data Storage at Queen’s, in collaboration with the University of Glasgow and funded by the Engineering and Physical Sciences Research Council (EPSRC), will address a skills shortage in the photonics industry and develop photonic systems to address the expanding data storage needs of today’s fast-moving digital world.

Queen’s is one of 12 partner universities involved in the AHRC Centre for Doctoral Training in the Celtic Languages. Also involving collaboration with the National Library of Wales and Bòrd na Gàidhlig, the Centre will provide funding for 26 PhD awards across the partnership between 2014 and 2019. The Centre supports doctoral research and training in Celtic languages, literatures and cultures.

The new £1m Leverhulme Interdisciplinary Network on Cybersecurity and Society (LINCs), a collaboration between the Centre for Secure Information Technologies and The Senator George J. Mitchell Institute for Global Peace, Security and Justice, will provide 30 doctoral students with three-year scholarships over the next seven years, working at the interface between the social sciences and electronic engineering.
