STUDY LAW AND SHAPE THE FUTURE

Studying Law at Queen's is excellent preparation for a wide range of professions as well as being the first step towards becoming a solicitor or barrister. The School of Law is world-leading, ranked as one of the world's top 150 law schools and a member of the prestigious Law Schools Global League (LSGL). We are proud of our heritage of law being taught at Queen's for 180 years, and of our commitment to making a positive difference to society in Belfast and beyond – a mission that our fantastic students are central to.

TEACHING AND RESEARCH EXCELLENCE

Students will be taught by outstanding academics who regularly produce ground-breaking research that influences the development of the law and public policy. For students, this means expert and insight-led teaching and engaging discussion across core and elective modules.

CAREER-FOCUSSED

We have a long tradition of educating the legal profession of Northern Ireland and beyond and have close links with the judiciary and the legal profession. All undergraduate Law degrees at Queen's are recognised by legal professional bodies in Northern Ireland, England and Wales.

The student experience is complemented by insight days, placement opportunities, a careers module, guest lectures by legal firms, employer-led skills programmes, and an inspiring range of annual sponsored prizes.

Placement – Final year students will have the opportunity to gain accredited work experience in a placement helping to develop their legal and life skills and supporting their future career – be it legal or non-legal.

THINKING BEYOND

Student Societies – Discover the Student Law Society, Mooting Society, Women in Law, 'The Verdict' Magazine, LawPod Podcast, Lawyers Without Borders, Street Law Project, Literific Society (debating), and many more.

Study Abroad – Explore a range of overseas study exchanges to experience another culture and unearth new ways of learning.
