

N. Ireland Cancer Registry Implications of Research for Services

NICR Lead Author (Office use only)
Paper ID (Office use only)
Date Submitted to NICR Steering Group Click here to enter a date. (Office use only)

Paper Title	Pain, fatigue and depression symptom cluster in survivors of prostate cancer
Authors	Manisha Baden, Liya Lu, Frances J. Drummond, Anna Gavin, Linda Sharp
Journal	Supportive Care in Cancer
DOI	https://doi.org/10.1007/s00520-019-05268-0
Funders	Movember in collaboration with Prostate cancer UK
Full paper available online	YES <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> NO <input type="checkbox"/> NOT YET <input type="checkbox"/>
Conclusion	The pain-fatigue-depression symptom cluster is present in 1 in 13 prostate cancer survivors. Physical after-effects of prostate cancer treatment are associated with this cluster.
What this means for the service	More attention should be paid to identifying and supporting survivors who experience multiple symptoms; this may help health-related quality of life improve among the growing population of prostate cancer survivors.