

04.30-05.50PM

Cognitive and Physical Reactions in Old English and Old Norse Literature

Chair: Elisa Ramazzina (QUB)

- Christina Lee (University of Nottingham), 'Nis nu cwicra nan þe ic him modsefan mine durre...: Early Medieval Trauma Narratives'
- Sarah Baccianti (QUB), 'Healing from an emotional outburst'
- Roderick Dale (University of Nottingham), 'Problems in pathologising the past: a critique of the analysis of berserksgangr in Old Norse literature'

06.00-06.30PM Closing Remarks

6.30PM Drinks

8.30PM Dinner

For any queries please contact
s.baccianti@qub.ac.uk

With thanks for financial support:

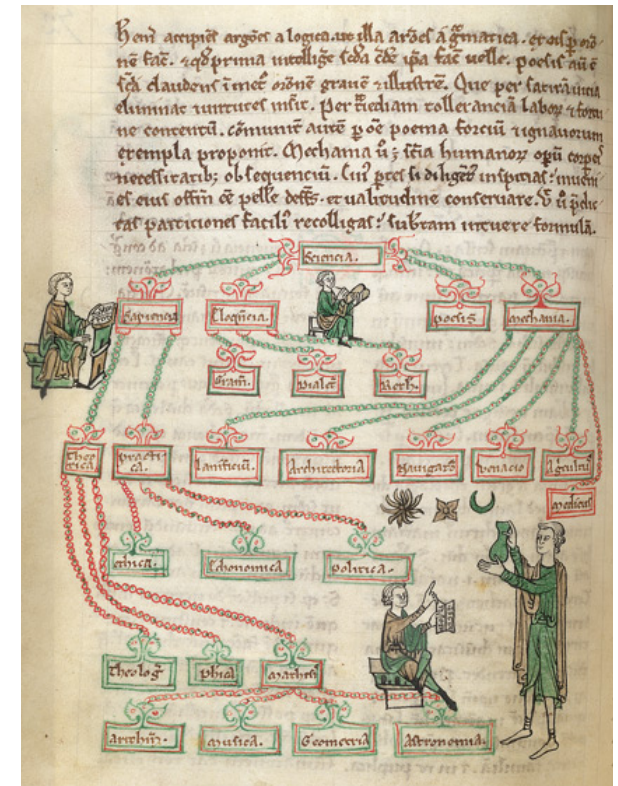

Image: Diagram of the arts and sciences, with a man reading, a man writing, an astronomer and a physician. In St. Anselm's 'Similitudes' And Other Works. Cotton MS Cleopatra C XI, f.72v

Science and Medicine in the Insular Middle Ages

Friday, 7th December 2018

Queen's University Belfast
Harty Room

Science and Medicine in the Insular Middle Ages

Friday, 7th December 2018

Harty Room

09.15-10.00AM

Registration

10.00-11.20AM

Texts, Bodies and Souls

Chair: Sharon Arbuthnot (QUB)

- Aoibheann Nic Dhonnachadha (DIAS), 'An Irish medical commentary of the 15th century'
- Jason Harris (UCC), 'The health benefits of fasting in medieval medical writings'
- Daniel McCann (University of Oxford), 'Consume and devour: fevered passions in Discretio literature.'

11.20-11.45AM Coffee

11.45AM-01.30PM

Transmission, Translation and Language: Medical Manuscripts in Ireland, England and Wales

Chair: Marilina Cesario (QUB)

- Sharon Arbuthnot (QUB), 'Finding the words: how medieval Irish developed a language of medical discourse'
- Deborah Hayden (Maynooth University), 'The poetry of healing in a medieval Irish medical compendium'
- Peter Jones (University of Cambridge), 'Medical textual communities in late medieval England'
- Diana Luft (Aberystwyth University), 'Medieval Welsh medical recipes: sources and analogues'

01.30-02.45PM Lunch

02.45-04.05PM

Science, Nature and Law in the North

Chair: Immo Warntjes (TCD)

- Christian Etheridge (Copenhagen), 'The role of cathedrals in the reception and dissemination of scientific knowledge in medieval Scandinavia'
- Stefka Eriksen (NIKU), 'Settlement as a practice and metaphor in medieval Iceland'
- Anne Irene Riisøy (USN), 'Head and shoulders, knees and toes: injury and compensation in early West Norwegian law'

04.10-04.30PM Coffee Break