

QUB Research Showcase 2022

Irish and Linguistic Diversity

Dé Céadaoin ag 12pm, Ionad Peter Froggatt 02/017
Wednesdays at 12pm, Peter Froggatt Centre 02/017

- 9 March Eoghan Ó Garmaíle (MA graduate, School of History, Anthropology, Philosophy and Politics), ‘The Lower Ormeau Unlocked: Poverty, Parades and the Irish-language Revival 1970-2000’.
- 15 March Linda Ervine (Department of Irish, School of Arts, English and Languages), ‘Irish for all’. [In collaboration with Public Engagement Office, Great Hall, QUB at 5pm]
- 16 March Dr Mel Engman (Lecturer, School of Social Sciences, Education and Social Work), ‘De-settling education with Indigenous language and land’.
- 23 March Dr Órla Nig Oirc (PhD graduate, School of Social Sciences, Education and Social Work), ‘An Gaeloideachas ó Thuaidh: A Bourdieusian Perspective’.
- 30 March Fionnghuala Nic Roibeaird (PhD candidate, School of Social Sciences, Education and Social Work), ‘Is Gael Mise: Féiniúlacht, Pobal, agus oideolaíocht athraitheach an Ghaeloideachais’ [I’m a Gael: Identity, Community and transformative pedagogy in Irish-medium education].
- 6 April Annie Jowett, (PhD candidate, Department of Irish, School of Arts, English and Languages), ‘Dialect and Languages in Place Names of Co. Wexford /Teangacha agus Canúnachas i Logainmneacha Loch Garman

All papers presented bilingually. Organised by Roinn na Gaeilge agus an Léinn Cheiltigh (Department of Irish and Celtic Studies). Generously sponsored by Seachtain na Gaeilge, Institute of Irish Studies and School of Social Sciences, Education and Social Work (SSESW).